

CITY WILL SPEND $100,000 ON IMPROVEMENTS

Plans for Street and Sewer Work Comprehend the Employment of Two Thousand Men.

THIS DOES NOT INCLUDE COUNTY CONVICT LABOR

Representatives of the Ten Wards of the City Submit Definite Plans for Paving and Regrading.

Plans which comprehend the expenditure of nearly $100,000, and the employment of more than 2,000 men in addition to the convict labor on street and sewer improvements, were launched at a joint meeting of the street committee of council and the public works committee of Fulton county Tuesday afternoon.

Representatives of the ten wards of Atlanta who are members of the street committee submitted definite plans for street improvements. These plans, if carried out, will mean that the city's appropriation of $238,000 for streets and $235,000 for new sewers and sewer extensions will be spent before the end of the year, which will mark, according to city officials, the most progressive year in the history of the city.

County Will Co-Operate

It is the desire of the county commissioners to co-operate with the city in every possible way to get the extensive improvements rushed through. Explained Commissioner W. Tom Wain, outlining the plans of the commission. "On the other hand, we want the city to co-operate with the county. Both sides get together on a co-operative basis I believe that we will get through more work this year than ever before."

Requests for work from the ward representatives were taken under consideration by the county commissioners. The public works committee, which is composed of Commissioners W. Tom Wain, Jeff Hightower and Oscar Mills, is holding a regular meeting for the purpose of arranging a program to guide the city and county in all street improvements and sewer extensions during the year.

Next Friday afternoon the street committee of council will hold its regular meeting. At this session the city and county will reach an agreement as to which of the several big projects will be launched.

Among the improvements which have given the city and county and property owners the most benefit is the extension of the Butler and Highland avenue sewers. Members of the fourth ward in council—Alderman Thomson and Councilmen Ashley and Farrington—have not asked for any impressive street improvements, but will center their efforts on extending the two sewers. The Highland avenue-St. Charles avenue-St. Louis trunk sewer will be extended $500,000, and the Highland avenue trunk sewer will be extended just as far as the expenditure of $175,000 will permit.

Members of the fourth ward delegation figure that the city will work on the sewers rushed, they will be satisfied insofar as street improvements are concerned, in the paving of North avenue extending through the eighth and fourth wards.

Widening of Bottle-Neck

The widening of the bottle-neck between the junction of Peachtree street and the highway will be completed this year at a cost of $100,000. The money has been provided for in the city budget and already a little more than $8,000 has been authorized for the work.

Property owners for the portions of the property they have deeded over to the city to make the widening possible. This year the finance committee provided a fund of $100,000 for the widening of the highway.

In addition to the above fund, the finance committee provided for a fund for $20,000 for asphalt and bituminous repairs, $2,500 for Belgian blocks, and $2,500 for wood blocks.

Work of Reurfacing

For the work of reurfacing and resurfacing the old city streets, the city, in lieu of furnishing material on the several jobs, pay the county the following prices to cover in full all cost of the work.

For three inches new stone, asphalt binder, 35 cents per square yard; for two inches, 43 cents; for three inches, 52 cents.

The work will necessitate the use of machinery, and the employment of twelve free laborers and thirty convicts. Where car tracks are encountered the convicts will loosen the old surface with picks and shovels.

A number of stone are than three inches of stone will be required. In the county the convicts are to take care of the work. The city will furnish the material. The county also agrees to take care of hauling and spreading of material.

The city is to indicate to the county the work to be done, and make the necessary arrangements for the work progress, so that the city will be able to pay for the work.

Following are ward programs for paving and grading submitted by ward representatives and approved by the county.

First Ward—Regrade and repave Mitchell street, City's share, Marion and Turner road, Ashby to Mitchell street, Vine to Ashby, Griffin street, Simpson to Magellan, Thomas, Jackson to Hunter.

Second Ward—Pave street paving and repaving from Connelley to Georgia avenue from Pryor to West.

Court Room Sobs Of Crippled Child Free Her Father

The officer had told his story. The man had been drinking. He had violated the law and there was nothing to do but to punish him. The recorder looked down and saw standing by the prisoner's side a little crippled girl. A woman, who was silently weeping, was holding the child by the hand. The man, who lives at 40 Corley street, was on trial. He acknowledged that he had been drinking. He said it was his first offense and with the help of Almighty God he would never drink a drop again as long as he lived. "Just stop a minute," called out the recorder. "The child is your wife's." "She is," was the reply. "This little cripple girl your child—she is my own dear little girl," Williams answered. "Then you can go. I will not find a man who has such a burden resting on his back," the recorder continued. "Take your good wife and your little afflicted child and go home and make a man of yourself." The man caught his little girl up to his arms and said, "I thank you, and may God bless you for your kindness, and went on his way."

HOSPITAL AND JAIL CONDITIONS DIPPED BY GRADY BOARD

Superintendent Summell Declares Present Clinic Is Little More Than a "Hole in the Wall."

Clinic conditions at the Grady hospital and conditions as a whole at the Fulton county jail came in for caustic condemnation at the hands of Superintendent W. M. Summell, of Grady hospital, at the meeting of the trustees of that institution Tuesday afternoon. Superintendent Summell declares that the present clinic at the Grady hospital was nothing more than a "hole," where whites and blacks, male and female, mixed indiscriminately. He further stated that conditions at the hospital were urged by the superintendent and different trustees. Superintendent W. B. Summell, addressing the trustees, scored the clinic of the institution, and urged better clinic facilities. He stressed the need of group clinic facilities where emergency patients, women and men, might be partially segregated for proper examination, and where the races could be segregated.

College Ranking Jeopardized

Dr. Summell said that the public demanded a psychopathic ward, and pointed out that every free hospital of importance in the country had a psychopathic ward. Dr. Summell explained the Fulton county Tower, explained the superintendent "are not fit to house these persons suspected of mental weakness, and if they are brought to the Grady hospital, where they can be placed under the observation of psychopathic physicians, many of them will be saved from being sent to the insane asylum at Millidgeville."

Police Here Don't Enforce Auto Law, Declares Phil Cook

Only 1,712 out of 4,705 Automobiles in Atlanta Have Registered—Saturday Last Day.

The fact that out of the 4,705 automobiles in Atlanta, only 1,712 have been registered, with the secretary of state so far, is due to the failure of the Atlanta police to enforce the automobile law, according to the statement of Secretary of State Phil Cook.

"There are in Atlanta approximately 4,705 automobiles," said Mr. Cook. "Of this number, 2,002 have not yet complied with the law for 1915. Owners of these cars have only five minutes left Saturday night to comply with the law. Monday will be March 1, and after that date, any operator of an automobile which does not carry a 1915 tag, is liable to prosecution for a misdemeanor."

"There is no existing law which practically three-fourths of the automobile owners in Atlanta should have waited until almost the last day to register for the fact that they do not fear arrest by the Atlanta police. Last Saturday afternoon I saw two automobiles in the center of the city without a sign of a tag of any sort. This thing occurs regularly and is not interfered with."

"I made no boldness as to ask a member of the Atlanta police force why the law was not enforced, and it was false."

County Police Praised.
"Of the Fulton county police I have heard that the automobile law is a state law and that, therefore, the local police do not pay any attention to it. Murder, though, is a violation of a state law, and I notice that endeavorers are sometimes made to make arrests for this or other crimes to make. They are very efficient and faithful in the enforcement of the automobile law the moment they catch a violator outside of the city limits."

"From present indications, however, both city and county police will have ample opportunity to bring the law into effect after March 1."

Prior to the last session of the legislature, the state expressed a great deal of difficulty in having the automobile law enforced. Last year a compilation of 4,600 names of violators of the law was presented to the general assembly. To remedy this situation, the general assembly amended the automobile law making it the duty of the county commissioners of each county to see to it that the law is enforced. This, however, does not preclude any officer of the law for making an arrest of a driver of a car without the proper license tag."

"Chief Heaver, when asked for statement last night, would say nothing in reply to the secretary of state."

Everybody Knew When Atlanta Rotarians Held Celebration Of Their Birthday Tuesday

The Atlanta Rotary club held a birthday party yesterday—all day, but more especially at the Capital City club last night, and the home club came over to the party.

The event celebrated—the tenth anniversary of the birth of Rotarianism. The Atlanta club has been apprised and not infrequently surprised at the result, producing privileges of local Rotary activities and festivities on ordinary occasions. But yesterday's occasion was neither local nor ordinary.

There were telegrams of congratulations from Los Angeles and Dallas and Chicago and Mobile and Philadelphia and New Orleans, and there were speeches to the home and Atlanta Rotarians over the long distance by international Rotarians officials in Chicago, Toledo and Philadelphia.

A Striking Scene.
Rome—Nero's not doing Georgia—in all her glory never presented a scene so regally gorgeous as the big banquet hall of the Capital City club when the Atlanta Rotarians ushered the visitors into the last night.

In the balcony an orchestra struck up "Tipperary" and the Rotarians took up the strain and the dinner had begun its record breaking pace. Fred Houser stood upon a chair and led the singing. When he had finished Wylie West made a speech.

Before the banquet was served the Rotarians stood and drank the health of the president, President Woodrow Wilson and sang the national anthem.

Mr. Peder's Speech. Mr. Peder, sergeant-at-arms—he had but one weapon—a forty-two centimeter horse pistol—was vainly endeavoring to keep order shooting up the whole outfit with blank cartridges.

When Bert Adams, president of the Atlanta Rotary club and co-master of the evening, at length threatened to call them to order, everything became as quiet as a boiler shop and Secretary Wylie of the home club called the home roll.

Each home Rotarian answered to his name, giving his name in full, and stated his business and was given ample opportunity to display his brilliance.

At the close of the roll call Wylie West made a speech. "Besides the home visitors these were a number of representatives from Rotary clubs of other cities, including Wylie Adams of Savannah, William Love of Birmingham, Mr. Dougherty of Philadelphia, J. B. Gay of Jacksonville, Mr. Fink of Tampa and others."

Meanwhile, Mell R. Wilkinson and Walter G. Cooper, president and secretary of the Atlanta Rotary club, had entered the hall and taken their seats at the speakers' table. Everybody was laughing and singing when a home Rotarian, who the speaker the word is not meant to reflect on any one face Mr. Adams, Cooper, whereupon he mounted a chair and offered a banquet of 21 white men who could make Mr. Cooper smile.

At the close of the banquet President George Smith, of the home club, extended to the Atlanta club a most cordial invitation to come to Rome.

At the close of the banquet the home Rotarians gathered the Atlanta Rotarians at the club at 10 o'clock. The guests of the Atlanta club at its big anniversary dinner were the guests of the city, including the Oglethorpe university site, and various country clubs.

POWERS ARE PRESSING IN REGARD TO MEXICO

They Want to Know What the United States Proposes to Do.

Washington, February 22.—Diplomatic representatives of various countries who have inquired as to the course of the United States in the Mexican situation have been advised informally that the administration is awaiting the results of conferences between Duval West, personal representative of President Wilson, with different leaders and between General Carranza and Charles A. Douglas, a Washington attorney.

Douglas went to Vera Cruz with Ellen Arredondo, Washington representative of Carranza, to discuss with the first chief international aspects of the Mexican situation with view to pending questions relating to foreign investment in Mexico.

West is to confer with Villa and other leaders of the revolution. He is reported through these channels that the United States government's policy toward Carranza will be based on the results of the fighting, forwarded from Chihuahua today to the department. After the battle Villa reported, he turned the Carranza troops toward Maricao. Villa said his own losses were 100 killed and 250 wounded.

It was while he was singing that strange looking gentleman, with side whiskers and a mustache, and Irish nationality, entered. He stood for a moment and watched the singing following and tears started to well in his eyes.

"Just a line in praise of Sloan's Liniment. I have been ill nearly fourteen weeks with rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica. I have been treated by doctors but they have not helped me. I had not slept for the terrible pain for several nights, when my wife got me a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment and three applications gave me relief so that I could sleep."—Joseph Tawney, 615 Colver Street, McKenney, Pa.

Thousands of Dollars Each Year

CONSTITUTION WANT ADS furnish a myriad of "Short Cuts" between "Wants" of Constitution readers and the satisfaction of those "Wants."

Without this agency for bringing together buyer and seller, Employer and Employee, Landlord and Tenant, etc., both sides to each one of thousands of transactions might spend a great deal of time in futile attempts to locate each other.

Use them often, the more you use the more success you will have in obtaining results.

cotton and a good year generally for the entire nation, but "we of the south," he said, "have got to make every dollar do 100 cents' worth of work."

He urged diversification of crops and the construction of good roads. "Bad roads," he declared, "have done more to hurt business this winter than the war."

Mr. Pedder's speech follows:

Mr. Pedder's speech.

"We in the south had reason to believe in the early summer of 1914 that prosperity was upon us, and that we were about to do the biggest business of our lives; but like a clap of thunder from a clear sky war was declared and our business fabric came tumbling down without a moment's warning, and we were left with an absolutely unprec-denied situation, whitewash or while threatening the stoutest hearts. Shortly, however, we came to the store, and we found we were still living, still had bread and meat, our streets and parks were as tangible as ever; that our banks and stores were still open and doing business, inaugurate without prejudice to our business, making every dollar we spend do a full 100 cents' worth of work. In some lines concentration, working a limited field with thoroughness, will turn the trick; in special lines we will have to go further afield than

and that most of us were getting along about as usual. A lot of our friends said they would have to put up their automobiles for a while, and others that they would not be able to go to Florida for the winter, but notice the machines are still running, and here, before the war, the business was slow, so you must first get your foundation right. Credit is the foundation of your business, a larger territory will have to be covered to take the volume and the profit. Each man will have to figure it out for himself, but the results can best be attained. The upbuilding will be slow, all things being slow, but you must first get your foundation right. Credit is the foundation of your business.

poverty that was so prevalent; naturally everyone outside of the south believed we were broke, and some of them still believe it, which has resulted in the withdrawal or reduction of credit to our merchants, and almost all companies are in a state of distrust outside money or the starting of new ones. It is right; let us show the world that we are not broke; that we are not mendicant; that we have yet our unrivalled resources. Put our idle wage-earners at work on municipal, county and state enterprises. If necessary, our idle time-wasters can be put to work to buy done work to bust business; this one

Europe's Needs.

"In Europe there are over 10,000,000 men engaged in the war business, 10,000,000 men who have been taken from the producing and placed in the consuming class; they have to be fed, clothed and housed, and do you believe that we won't be called upon to do it? These men will have to be supplied with khaki uniforms and tents—where are they going to get them? Kitchener tells us the war has only begun. Exports of cotton? I

The Holland Letter

In his communications recently made to President Wilson by Mayor Mitchell, of this city, in which the mayor calls the president's attention to the increase in the cost of bread which New York bakers have made, there was no mention of the recent months.

South Will Diversify.

In fact, American farmers, whatever crops they will cultivate, will endeavor to secure record crops. Information has reached this city that the farmers of the south

There was information that the mayor's committee on food supply is apprehensive that if exports of wheat continue in such volume as has been characteristic of the exports for the past three months then there might arise a serious question, possibly justified, that the United States will be unable to diversify their crops to a greater extent than ever before.

Nothing but nationwide drought or other natural or man-made disturbance or complete devastation by war can induce the great food products of the American farmers raise that is Indian corn. For while it is, for

Through the department of agriculture at Washington a reply has been made which, while spoken of here as very gratifying from one point of view, nevertheless does not fully answer the implied inquiry made by Mayor Mitchell. In his communication to the president the mayor referred only to the danger to the health of a small percentage in the supply of wheat needed by the American people. The reason this was done lies in the fact that the Americans are the greatest consumers of wheat for food of any people in the world. They are so accustomed to the use of wheat flour food that they look upon it as a necessity of life. It would be a hardship if the American people were compelled par-

The mayor is understood to believe, as his food supply committee does, that if the United States were in dire extremity due to the prevalence of a great war here then the public would gladly make use of other food

Estimates Include Cotton.

In the late 1940s and early 1950s, when it was possible to prepare a reasonably accurate estimate of the volume and the money value of American agricultural products, the estimate was that in volume the aggregate exceeded any which has heretofore been harvested in the United States. In quality it averaged as good as the estimate in the produce exchange of this city that the United States can, with confidence count every year upon not less than 2,500,000,000 bushels of corn and in favorable weather considerably more than 3,000,000,000.

beat and its money value would be approximately $10,000,000,000. That estimate, of course, included the cotton crop. With cotton and other fibers left out of consideration, there still remains a volume of agricultural products chiefly available for food unsurpassed by any other country in the world. It is large enough to feed the people of the United States and to provide a considerable surplus for export. The high price obtained for wheat recently will serve to increase the money value of the harvest, although this might be somewhat upset by the present time there is not the slightest danger that the people of the United States would be in peril lest there be a shortage of food supplies, for not at any other time in our history have our supplies of food and of raw materials been so abundant. Beginning at a time when they are at the present time

The clear intimation in this report of the department of agriculture is that the administration at Washington now sees no good reasons for contemplating an embargo upon the export of wheat.

seem to be in accord with Mayor Mitchell's food supply committee and there are reasons for inferring that that committee was gratified to learn from the department that there is less danger of a shortage of wheat for the American people than he feared was the case when he wrote his letter to
